

Counselor Magazine is now available online for FREE to all IC&RC reciprocally credentialed individuals. In Ohio this includes all LCDC II, LCDC III, LICDC, OCPS I and OCPS II professionals. The CDCA and RA certifications are not reciprocal and therefore do not qualify to receive this free offer.

Counselor Magazine includes Online CE Quizzes for CE credits, feature articles from the field's leading experts and columns about the latest developments in alternative therapies, ethics, policy, professional development, clinical supervision, addiction medicine, information technology, cultural trends and research to practice.

To gain FREE access to Counselor Magazine's current bi-monthly publication and their extensive archive of articles please follow the instructions below:

- Go to www.counselormagazine.com
- Click on the "Get a Free Login" link within the Login module on the right side of the website.
- Enter your first and last name, e-mail address, a username that you will use to login to the website and a password at least six characters in length or more.
- Click on the "Get a Free Login" button.

You will then be prompted to enter subscription information for full site access, which will enable you to read all of the online articles. It is important that you fill in all of the fields on this screen so that your access can be upgraded to the Paid Subscriber level which is free to IC&RC reciprocal professionals.

- Enter CN1040 for the CN Account Number
- Enter the postal code where you are located
- Enter OCDPB for the name of the Board you are directly affiliated with
- Enter the Country in which you reside and the State/Province of residence
- Click on the SUBMIT button.

Once you have finished the registration process you will see a confirmation screen. Click on the link provided which will take you back to the home page of the website. If you look to your right you will see the login area. Login to the site using the username and password you created when signing up for the Counselor online subscription. Now you have full site access.
